AGREEMENT FOR SERVICE/INFORMED CONSENT

Introduction

This agreement is intended to provide _____ herein “Patient(s)”) with important information regarding the practices, policies, and procedures of Negeen Moussavian, MA, Registered Associate Marriage & Family Therapist #107771 (herein “Therapist”), working under the supervision of Curt Widhalm, LMFT #47333, and to clarify the terms of the professional therapeutic relationship between Therapist and Patient(s). Any questions or concerns regarding the contents of this agreement should be discussed with the Therapist prior to signing it.

Therapist Qualifications

I am Registered Associate Marriage and Family Therapist #10771 by the California Board of Behavioral Sciences. I am being supervised by Curt Widhalm LMFT #47333. As his associate, I am required to participate in weekly supervision meetings. Supervision means that my clients are overseen by my supervisor during these weekly meetings.

Risks and Benefits of Therapy

Psychotherapy is a process in which Therapist and Patient(s), sometimes other family members, discuss a myriad of issues, events, experiences, and memories for the purpose of creating positive change so Patient(s) can experience his/her life more fully. It provides an opportunity to better and more deeply understand oneself, as well as any problems or difficulties Patient(s) may be experiencing. Psychotherapy is a joint effort between Patient(s) and Therapist. Progress and success may vary depending on the particular problems or issues being addressed, as well as many other factors.

Participating in therapy may result in a number of benefits to the Patient(s), including, but not limited to: reduced stress and anxiety, a decrease in negative thoughts and self-sabotaging behaviors, improved interpersonal relationships, increased comfort in social, school, and family settings, and increased self-confidence. Such benefits may also require substantial effort on the part of Patient(s), as well as his/her caregivers and/or family members, including an active participation in the therapeutic process, honesty, and a willingness to change feelings, thoughts, and behaviors. There is no guarantee that therapy will yield any or all of the benefits listed above.

Participating in therapy may also involve some discomfort, including remembering and discussing unpleasant events, feelings, and experiences. This discomfort may also extend to other family members, as they may be asked to address difficult issues and family dynamics. The process may evoke strong feelings of sadness, anger, fear, etc. There may be times in which Therapist will challenge the perceptions and assumptions of the Patient(s) or other family members, and offer different perspectives. The issues presented by Patient(s) may result in unintended outcomes, including changes in personal relationships.

During the therapeutic process, many Patient(s) find that they feel worse before they feel better. This is generally a normal course of events. Personal growth may be easy and swift at times, but may also be slow and frustrating. Patient(s) should address any concerns he/she has regarding progress with Therapist.

Professional Consultation

Professional consultation is an important component of a healthy psychotherapy practice. As such, Therapist regularly participates in clinical, ethical, and legal consultation with appropriate professionals. During such consultations, Therapist will not reveal any personally identifying information regarding Patient(s) or Patient(s)'s family or caregivers.

Records and Record Keeping

Therapist may take notes during session, and will also produce other notes and records regarding Patient(s)'s treatment. These notes constitute Therapist's clinical and business records, which, by law, Therapist is required to maintain. Such records are the sole property of Therapist. Therapist will not alter his/her normal record keeping process at the request of any Patient(s). Should Patient(s) request a copy of Therapist's records, such a request must be made in writing. Therapist reserves the right, under California law, to provide Patient(s), with a treatment summary in lieu of actual records. Therapist also reserves the right to refuse to produce a copy of the record under certain circumstances, but may, as requested, provide a copy of the record to another treating health care provider. Therapist will maintain Patient(s)'s records for seven years following termination of therapy. However, after seven years, Patient(s)'s records will be destroyed in a manner that preserves Patient(s)'s confidentiality.

Confidentiality

The information disclosed by Patient(s) is generally confidential and will not be released to any third party without written authorization from Patient(s), except where permitted by law. Exceptions to confidentiality include, but are not limited to: reporting child, elder, and dependent adult abuse; when a Patient(s) makes a serious threat of violence towards a reasonably identifiable victim, when a Patient(s) is dangerous to him/herself or the person or property of another, or when a Patient(s) is court-mandated or otherwise obligated to receive therapy. Therapist also holds a strict "No Secrets" policy when working with couples or families. This means that the content of any communications with Therapist by any Patient(s) between sessions will be shared with all other Patient(s) during the next session either by the reporting Patient(s) or by the Therapist.

Patient(s) Litigation

Therapist will not voluntarily participate in any litigation or custody dispute in which Patient(s) and another individual or entity, are parties. Therapist has a policy of not communicating with Patient(s)'s attorney and will generally not write or sign letters, reports, declarations, or affidavits to be used Patient(s)'s legal matter. Therapist will generally not provide records or testimony unless compelled to do so. Should Therapist be subpoenaed, or ordered by a court of law, to appear as a witness in an action involving Patient(s), Patient(s) agrees to reimburse Therapist for any time spent for preparation, travel, or other time in which Therapist has made him/herself available for such an appearance at Therapist's usual and customary hourly rate of $120.00. Should Therapist be required for appearance, a minimum of 4 hours will be set aside for the appearance whether or not Therapist is called to testify in addition to preparation and travel time.

Psychotherapist-Patient(s) Privilege

The information disclosed by Patient(s), as well as an records created, is subject to the psychotherapist-Patient(s) privilege. The psychotherapist-Patient(s) privilege results from the special relationship formed between the Therapist and Patient(s) in the eyes of the law. It is akin to the attorney-client privilege or the doctor-Patient(s) privilege. Typically, the Patient(s) is the holder of the privilege. If Therapist receives a subpoena for records, deposition testimony, or testimony in a court of law, Therapist will assert the psychotherapist-Patient(s) privilege on Patient(s)'s behalf until instructed in writing to do otherwise by a person with the authority to waive the privilege on Patient(s)'s behalf. When a Patient(s) is a minor child, the hold of the psychotherapist-Patient(s) privilege is either the minor, a court appointed guardian, or minor's counsel. Parents typically do not have the authority to waive the psychotherapist-Patient(s) privilege for their minor children, unless given such authority by a court of law. Patient(s) is encouraged to discuss any concerns regarding the psychotherapist-Patient(s) privilege with his/her attorney. In instances that Patient(s)s are court-mandated to receive therapy, the Court holds the privilege, not the Patient(s).

Patient(s) should be aware that he/she might be waiving the psychotherapist-Patient(s) privilege if he/she makes his/her mental or emotional state an issue in a legal proceeding.

Social Media Policy

Clients are free to follow and like any of my social media profiles that are publicly available, but are under no obligation to do so. I will NEVER interact with your social media in any way that indicates that you are a client. Any social media requests that require a two-way approval process (for example, Facebook friends, requests to follow private accounts, etc.) will be ignored. Therapist's role is to provide confidentiality of client's choice to pursue psychotherapy, and this is a way to help you pursue those services in a publicly anonymous way.

Online Reviews

Clients are free to write online reviews of their experience with therapist, but do so at the risk of breaking their own confidentiality. Therapist will never respond directly to client reviews to preserve client confidentiality. If you are ever unhappy with therapist services, I do encourage you to directly approach those concerns with me prior to posting any reviews so that I can best work with you to address your concerns.

Client Substance Use Policies

If clients attend sessions under the influence of drugs and/or alcohol, therapist reserves the right to terminate the session at the cost of the full session. Psychotherapy is best conducted when clients are not limited in their abilities to address their emotions and logic. Repeated violations of this policy are grounds
